Loss Of Freedom Assailed In Talk By A. Meiklejohn

By Dan Fulmer

"Whatever may be the dangers involved, the minds of men must be free," declared Dr. Alexander Meiklejohn, liberal educator and political writer, in his lecture Wednesday night in the College Chapel.

"What is freedom?" was the question discussed by Meiklejohn, described as an "activator of men's minds," by Professor Edgar Graves in introducing the speaker to an audience of faculty and students.

Former Amherst Head

The former Amherst College President applied his well-known statement, "all that is worth saying, should be said," in his attack against the "collection of gossip" by the FBI and the oppression of free speech by the University of California's faculty loyalty oath requirements.

According to Meiklejohn, the basis of our American tradition of freedom was laid by Roger Williams of Massachusetts 320 years ago in his quarrel with the colony over freedom of criticism of state opinions and policies. Today Meiklejohn finds the same type of quarrel prevalent. However, now one can defend his right to criticize by turning to the Constitution with its concrete expression of the American tradition of freedom.

"Timid Loyalty"

Ever since the writing of that document, observed Meiklejohn, Americans have been losing their political energy in their "timid loyalty" which is only a "conformity destroying our tradition." Today, said the lecturer, the government and some of the people are the present day counterpart of the reactionary opposition to Roger Williams.

However, what the government and others actually oppose, said Meiklejohn, is this same Constitution, which by its First Amendment explicitly forbids the censorship of people's thinking. Continued Meiklejohn, the government is now afraid that Communistic thought will ruin the minds of Americans if allowed to be uttered freely.

Attacks Restrictions

Therefore, the government has opposed free speech, said Meiklejohn, through the actions of its FBI, its Congressional Un-American committees, and its restrictive immigration laws in order "to protect minds from ideas too dangerous, in their opinion, to be heard."

In this way, Meiklejohn warned, the government only fosters the further spread of Communistic thought. If Americans are to fight this ideal, they must find out about it. Or else, said the present trustee of Freedom House and former UNESCO member, Americans will not know what they're fighting for. And the government, said he, will continue to "talk freedom and do repression."

Council Reveals Funds For Clubs Cut By Trustees

The budgets of three Hill organizations were slashed by the College Board of Trustees, it was revealed Monday by the Student Council at its regular meeting in Root Hall.

The Charlatans and the Camera Club were both allotted $100 less than what they had requested for the 1951-52 year, while the Debate Club budget was cut by $200.

Council President Bill Schwarz said that the Trustees usually appropriate $2000 to $2500 each year from the student activities fund and allow the Student Council to divide this money as it wishes between the organizations submitting budgets to it.

This year, however, the Trustees voted $700 for the Charlatans, $800 for the Debate Club and $500 for the Council. So far, the Council has allotted $150 of this $500 to the Camera Club, which requested $250. The Trustees had appropriated no money to the group. The Council intends to use the remainder of their appropriation for budgets still to come in and as a reserve fund.

Last year the Debate Club was given $1,000, while the Charlatans were voted $900.

Memorial Service

Memorial services for the late Donald B. Durham, Edward North Professor of Greek at Hamilton until his death three weeks ago, will be held Thursday at 4:10 p.m. in the College Chapel.

Rushing System To Be Examined

Lee Voyce was appointed chairman of a committee to investigate possible changes in rushing rules at a meeting of the I.F.C. Monday night in Root Hall.

Other members of the three man group, which will meet with house rushing chairmen to determine the need and scope of possible changes in the rules, are Larry Rouillard and Robert Fry.

The Council also approved the abolishment of exchange dinners and confirmed the awarding of the cleaning franchise on the Hill to the Lincoln Cleaners of New Hartford.

Dean Winton Tolles, speaking to the group, requested that each fraternity file with his office a copy of the house's rules on alcohol and a copy of the chapter's rushing regulations. He also announced that the names of chaperones for fall houseparty must be reported to him by Monday.

Hayner To Preach

Dr. Paul C. Hayner, assistant Professor of Philosophy and Ethics at Hamilton, will deliver the sermon in the College Chapel Sunday evening.

Jack Brownfield was elected Assistant Diirector of the organization at its regular meeting last week.

Eastman Quartet To Offer Recital In College Chapel

By Neil Harvey Gould

The Eastman String Quartet, an outstanding group of young musicians from the Eastman School of Music, will present a varied group of selections at the Chapel on Wednesday. The ensemble, which has been concertizing for over ten years, has chosen works by Mozart, Rieti and Prokofieff for the concert.

Edward Fiorelli, first violinist of the quartet, is a student of Andre de Ribaupierre at the Eastman School. He was also a scholarship student at Curtis Institute where he studied with such eminent artists as Efrem Zimbalist and Mme Lea Luboshutz. He has been presented as violin soloist with the Scranton Philharmonic Orchestra and has given several recitals in Pennsylvania.

Raymond Gniewek, second violin, is no newcomer to The Hill. He played here last year and was well received. Like Mr. Fiorelli, he is a pupil of Mr. Ribaupierre. He has studied at the Juilliard School of Music and is a member of the Rochester Philharmonic. He has also given many solo recitals in and around Hempstead, L. I.

Frank Bellino, violist from Teaneck, New Jersey, was awarded his Bachelor of Music

Four To Compete For Freshman Presidency Post

By David Dickens

Freshmen nominations for the office of class president were announced yesterday by the Elections Committee. The four whose petitions have been certified are John R. Ibach, Bernard K. Collins, Roger F. Mosher and Gordon M. Raitt.

Ibach is a graduate of Massena High School in Massena, New York. He won letters in basketball, baseball and track, and he played intramural football. Other fields of interest were dramatics, the Science and Latin Clubs and the school orchestra, in which he played the piano. Ibach was Business Manager of the yearbook and a Student Council member. He is an Alpha Delta Phi pledge.

Collins Football Letterman

President of the Avon Central School freshman class, Bernard K. Collins of Avon, New York, was also Vice-President of the Student Council and a three-year letterman in football. Collins also was a member of the school choir. It was announced at yesterday's Convocation that he has been selected as the freshman representative on the Honor Court. He has pledged to Delta Upsilon.

Roger F. Mosher graduated from the Academy and Central School in Pulaski, New York, where he was president of the Student Council. He participated in the band and dramatic productions and was also a member of the basketball and football teams. He is a Psi Upsilon pledge. Like the three other nominees, Mosher is taking a pre-medical course here.

Raitt Class Prexy

The fourth member of the freshman slate is Gordon M. Raitt from Irondequoit High School in Rochester and Wooster Preparatory School in Danbury, Connecticut. He was president of his Junior Class and manager of the school store. He played football, hockey and baseball. He is pledged to Delta Kappa Epsilon.

The election of the class president will be held immediately following Thursday Chapel. All students who entered Hamilton this July or September with no credits are eligible to vote. Foreign students have been ruled ineligible.

Social Ticket Sales

Sale of social tickets in the fraternity houses will officially end on Sunday, it was announced yesterday by Bob Lang, Social Committee chairman. After Sunday, persons wishing to buy tickets should contact Dave White at Theta Delta Chi. Lang also said that up to noon yesterday 300 tickets had been sold through fraternity representatives.

Meiklejohn . . . Cont.

Meiklejohn was particularly vehement in his attack against loyalty oaths for faculty. "Anyone who assumes the responsibility of a teacher," said the former professor, "must assure the student that his opinion is his own. Otherwise, the teacher is a mere employee, saying what he's paid to say." Above anything else, urged Meiklejohn, the college should teach and promote the practice of the power of freedom in America.

A meeting of the Publications Board is scheduled for Root 6 at 4 p.m. Monday, Chairman Phil Robinson said this week.

Jessups Thrilled By Warm Reception; Duty Thwarts Return To Private Life

By Charles Bates

"We were both simply thrilled at the warmth of Hamilton's reception; it really made us feel that we were once again at home here." With these words, Lois (Mrs. Philip C.) Jessup expressed her gratitude for the enthusiastic welcome given her husband at his speech in Chapel last week.

Then, glancing at the outspread pages of Life, the New York Times, the Herald Tribune, and the Utica Press, which were covered with pictures and headlines citing Jessup, she commented, "Isn't it ridiculous, all this fuss about Phil." It was obvious that she and her husband desired to return to the relative privacy of his academic career at Columbia.

A few minutes later, Jessup returned from a meeting of the Board of Trustees. Stretching out in a comfortable antique rocker, Jessup occasionally glanced through the window at the campus's brilliant fall foliage as he relaxed in reminiscing about the Hamilton of his day.

Ambassador At Large Speaks

By Tim Hyde

Admitting "public slander" to be one of the disadvantages of government service, Ambassador-at-large Philip C. Jessup, '18, declined to speak more specifically on McCarthyism or its ramifications in a Spectator interview Friday.

The Hamilton trustee pointed out several other disadvantages of such service, including poor pay and the possibility of losing a position due to a change of administration. "In government, there is no tenure," he observed.

Feels Obligation

Asked about his own position as Ambassador-at-Large, and the pending one as United States representative to the United Nations, Jessup reiterated his desire to return to his professorship at Columbia, but added that he felt he "ought to go on."

He spoke at length on the "Columbia letter," written in 1946 by Columbia University professors to suggest a one-year moratorium on atomic preparations. By way of explanation, he described the letter as a "suggestion before the official proposals," made in what he termed the "honeymoon period after the San Francisco Conference," when the U.S.S.R. was still co-operating. The Ambassador pointed out that at that time the U. S. apparently had an absolute monopoly on atomic weapons, and what the letter proposed was a standby status for plans and manufacture.

Explains Change

He explained his change of position since then by showing how the Soviet Union has dispelled any hopes of co-operation by its actions. The letter, he noted, was just after the organization of a U.N. Atomic Energy Commission, and before Russia started its aggressive actions.

In outlining the possibilities of a career in the State Department for graduates of liberal arts colleges, Jessup observed that while special graduate work is an advantage, it is not a prerequisite. He added that it is now possible to transfer from the foreign to the home service, or vice-versa, for the distinction of personnel between them has been largely eliminated by the Hoover Commission.

Large Turnover

Obtaining a position with the State Department, he stated, is not too difficult because of the large turnover. This latter he explained as being greater than in a business, because of the number of people who go into government service for a year or two of experience not for a career. Along the same lines, he described the periodic special demands, such as made by the Point IV program and the ECA.

"Government service is not as technical as it sounds," he concluded. "The basic requirement is academic training in research and analysis."

Music Club Presents Handel, Haydn Concert

The Music Club, under the leadership of Tom Bridges, presented the first of a series of evening student concerts last Sunday at the Alpha Delt House.

Featured in the concert were Bridges, Tom Fisher, Neil Gould, Rudiger Renner and Eric Selch.

The program consisted of works from Handel and Haydn. Future concerts will feature classical music of Schubert, Beethoven and Brahms.

Humanist Association Starts Story Contest

In an attempt to find good, humanistic fiction on the undergraduate level, the American Humanist Association, with the cooperation of Harper Brothers, is sponsoring a short story contest.

Over $400 in prizes will be awarded in the contest, which closes on March 15, 1952. Nolan Miller, author of A Moth of Time and instructor in creative writing at Antioch College, and the editors of Harper's Magazine will act as judges.

Interested students should ask G. Howard Williams and Edwin Barrett for further information or write directly to the A.H.A., Yellow Springs, Ohio for an announcement containing the rules.

Soccermen Crush Oswego State 6-0; To Meet Raiders

By Dan Goodstein

Coach John Panatier's soccer team will attempt to keep its undefeated record intact tomorrow afternoon when it invades Hamilton, New York to meet Colgate's Red Raiders. Having gained two comparatively easy victories over Ithaca and Oswego, the Hillmen face an acid test in tomorrow's contest.

The Colgate encounter promises to be a tougher affair for Hamilton than it was last year when the Blue won 5-1. Colgate will have the advantage of playing on its home field which is larger than Steuben Field. Coach Mark Randell, Tommy Dockrell's successor, will start a squad, almost identical to that which faced the Hillmen last year.

Colgate Leads Series

The Red Raiders will be out to avenge last year's defeat. It was the first time in thirteen years that the Blue has beaten their near-by rivals. Of the seventeen games that have been played since 1920, Colgate has won twelve, lost two, and tied three. They will be out to even up their season record tomorrow, having bowed to Rochester 2-1 in the season's opener.

Hamilton's 5½ point average per game may receive a jolt because both clubs feature the same type of cautious ball-control offensive game and tight defensive playing.

Most potent and feared man in the host's attack is center forward Vaughn. Scoring Colgate's only goal last year against the locals, he also smacked the twines to provide the 1949 1-0 Hamilton defeat.

Oswego Swamped 5-0

Hamilton posted its second consecutive win of the season when it drubbed Oswego State Teacher's College 5-0 at home last Friday afternoon.

Bob Payne, on an assist from Al Volmer, opened the scoring by booming a clean shot past goalie Dick Ciaramella at 8:20 of the first period.

Three quick goals, all within six minutes of each other, iced the game for the Blue late in the second period. First, Phil Hills rolled a shot through Ciaramella's legs. Then Dinny Calkins electrified the crowd with a dazzling display of footwork. He wormed his way around four Oswego defenders before booting his goal home. Finally. Bob Abrams scored on

College To Cancel J. V. Football Tilts

However, the JV soccer team will still play two games with Manlius, meeting the military men here today and traveling to Manlius November 3.

This will be the first time in three years the Continentals have not fielded a JV football squad.

Hamilton Continentals To Encounter Oberlin Yeomen After Losing Close Game To Worcester Polytechnic

Go Get Him, Bob

Bob Olwine (29) gets ready to block for back Dick Murray (12) near Hamilton's goal line in the Continental's contest with Worcester last week.

By John Bailey

After two losses in a row, but showing steady improvement and a great display of determination, the Continental eleven goes out after a still tougher foe in the power-laden Oberlin Yeomen tomorrow at Oberlin, Ohio.

The Battlin' Blue, humiliated by a 52-0 pasting on last fall's house party week-end, stand on the short end of a lopsided one win nine loss, two-two tie lifetime series count against Coach Lysle Butler's charges, and rate only a very outside chance of improving on their record tomorrow. Although they have lost seven of 1950's starting offensive eleven, including backfield luminaries O'Connor and McPhee, the Crimson and Gold wave has lost little of its formidable size and speed, sporting a 2-1 slate against potent Mid-Western opposition. Their lone reversal was a 13-12 squeaker to DePauw.

WPI Beats Blue

Last Saturday a large Clinton throng saw a fast, aggressive Hamilton unit push Worcester Polytechnic all over Steuben Field for one half, only to tire under the Engineers' beefy, grinding, last-half assault and bow, 21-14.

Superior depth and weight advantage again marked the difference, as the Big Red took almost three periods to wear down the tight, alert Blue defense, then poured across three TD's to erase the home crew's 7-0 edge and ice the game. But even after the flood gates had opened wide with Tech's third tally, the spirited losers charged back in the closing minutes to tighten the gap.

With the ball on Worcester's 48 after a short Blue march, Gumerlock bulled through left tackle, cut to the sideline, and scampered all the way to pay

Jessup, who left Hamilton in the winter of 1917 for a year of service in World War I, feels that student deferment is a wise policy. "In this way, the government can put manpower and brainpower to its best use,"

In the First War, he recalled that a student battalion with wooden guns drilled here under the instruction of a wounded Canadian soldier. Jessup himself objected to the then-Dean Percy Saunders that "being forced to go to classes when we might be drilling constitutes a 'breach of patriotism' ," he commented with a smile.

"The Honor System at Hamilton is a great institution," he stated. "I'm glad to know that it works as well now as it did in my time. We certainly are happy to be back here again," he concluded. "Next time it will be for a longer visit." To which Mrs. Jessup added, "And we hope under less trying circumstances."

Philip Blum, 'cellist, is a student of Gabor Rejto of Eastman. He has been soloist with the Chicago Symphony Orchestra and has been featured as cello soloist with the Youth Orchestra of Greater Chicago. In addition, Mr. Blum is also a member of the Rochester Philharmonic Orchestra.

TDX To Play Chi Psi For Blue Grid Title

Undefeated Chi Psi and once-beaten Theta Delt will clash Monday afternoon for the Blue League touch football intramural championship. Intramural chairman Carl Wheeler moved the game from this afternoon to Monday at the request of both teams.

A win or tie will send Chi Psi to the all-college finals Wednesday afternoon against Alpha Delta Phi whose heavy six-man team snapped Sigma Phi's victory skein by a 13-7 conquest yesterday. A Theta Delt win will necessitate a play-off game for the Blue League crown.

Tuesday afternoon, Theta Delt's Blue League volleyball champs will engage the Buff titlist for the all-College championship.

Next Thursday afternoon, all-star teams from the two leagues will meet in both sports. All-College champions in both sports will face the Utica College intramural championship squads in home and home series during the first week in November.

Final intramural standings will appear in next week's Spectator.

Hill Brilliant in First Half

The first two periods were dominated by superlative Hamilton play, with the Continentals leading at intermission with a well-deserved 7-0 lead and a big edge in statistics. For the whole game, it was the Clintonites in total yardage, 359-343. A brilliant goal-line stand squelched Worcester's only first-half threat.

The Buff and Blue, on Seaman's long heaves to Gumerlock, smashed within the New Englanders' ten-yard stripe three times in vain before finally breaking the spell on the highlight play of the game.
